Report

The Department of Commerce organized an insightful seminar titled "Mapping Your Professional Future: Career Orientation for B. Com," aimed at providing Bachelor of Commerce (B.Com) students with a comprehensive understanding of their potential career paths. The seminar focused on helping students align their academic pursuits with their professional ambitions, offering practical advice on navigating the competitive job market.

The presentation started with a welcome speech by Ms. Bindu T, Head and Assistant Professor, Department of Commerce, she stressed the importance of career planning in Commerce field and listed the number of options available to the B.Com graduates.

The session was led by Mr. Kamal Raj Mohan, Assistant Professor, Department of Commerce and Management Studies, and has an experience in corporate training and career development for commerce graduates.

He began by mapping out the current trends in the commerce sector, including the growing importance of digitalization, the rise of fintech, and the global shift towards sustainability. He highlighted the evolving roles within finance, accounting, marketing, and management, stressing the need for adaptability. The seminar stressed the importance of gaining practical experience through internships, part-time jobs, and volunteer work. He shared tips on how to secure meaningful internships, the significance of networking, and the role of mentorship in career development.

Following the presentation, there was an interactive session where students raised questions related to their career concerns. The speaker offered tailored advice on issues such as choosing between different career paths, balancing work and further education, and navigating the challenges of entering the workforce.

Overall, the seminar successfully met its objectives by providing B.Com students with the knowledge and tools needed to map out their professional futures, enhancing their readiness to enter the workforce and pursue successful careers.

Report

The Department of History organized a career counseling session titled "Envisioning Your Career: Forward-Looking Counseling for Success" tailored specifically for BA History students. The session aimed to provide insights into the various career paths available to history graduates and to equip students with the tools and knowledge to plan their futures effectively.

The seminar was conducted at college auditorium on 23rd October 2019, and started with welcome speech by Dr, Geetha N, Head and Assistant Professor of Department of History. And the inaugural address by the Principal Dr. Jayan E.

The speaker Mr. Rajesh, Higher Secondary School Teacher, began the session by emphasizing the importance of early career planning, particularly for students in disciplines like history, where career paths may not be as straightforward as in other fields. She highlighted the versatility of a history degree and how it can be a foundation for careers in education, research, public service, journalism, and even the corporate sector. He provided a detailed overview of the various career options available to history graduates, including roles in academia, museums, archives, historical consulting, and cultural resource management. She also discussed less traditional paths such as careers in law, public policy, and international relations, where historical knowledge and analytical skills are highly valued.

For students interested in pursuing advanced degrees, he discussed the benefits of specializing in particular areas of history, such as social, economic, or cultural history. He provided advice on selecting graduate programs and preparing strong applications.

Following the talk, there was an interactive session where students asked questions about their specific career interests. He provided personalized advice and shared additional resources, including recommended readings and websites for further exploration.

The session concluded with a note of encouragement from the speaker, who reminded the students that a degree in history equips them with unique perspectives and skills that are highly sought after in various industries. She urged them to take ownership of their career journeys and to start planning their futures with confidence and clarity.

Report

The seminar on "Guiding Your Future: Comprehensive Career Counseling Services" was specifically tailored for M.Com and M.Sc Computer Science students. The primary objective was to provide these students with targeted career guidance relevant to their fields, helping them navigate the career opportunities and challenges that lie ahead. The event was well-attended by students from both disciplines, eager to explore their career options and receive expert advice on career planning.

The programme was inaugurated by the principal Prof Hariprasad B, Department of Electronics and Communication, Govt Engineering College, and it's followed by the keynote presentation by Mr. Achuthanandan, Alumnus, Department of Computer Science.

He gave an overview of the importance of career counseling in shaping the futures of commerce and computer science graduates and specifies the challenges and opportunities in the job market for these disciplines. He specifies career paths in finance, accounting, banking, taxation, and corporate management for commerce students and for computer science students he specifies career options in software development, data science, cybersecurity, artificial intelligence, and more. Also emphasized on the importance of internships, project work, and contributions to open-source communities in building a strong resume.

The seminar featured an interactive session where students asked questions related to their specific career aspirations and challenges. The speaker provided personalized advice, particularly focusing on how students can bridge the gap between academic knowledge and industry requirements. Discussions also covered alternative career paths and the potential for interdisciplinary careers combining commerce and technology.

Students expressed positive feedback, noting that the seminar provided them with much-needed clarity on their career options. Many students appreciated the focus on real-world applications of their academic knowledge and the practical advice on job search strategies. The seminar concluded with a vote of thanks to the organizers and speakers, with students encouraged to seek further guidance as they advance in their career planning.

| Outcome/ Benefit of the Programme | The NET coaching was well-received by the participants. The focused approach, combined with expert guidance, significantly boosted the confidence of the students. |

Report

The Commerce Department organized a specialized coaching program aimed at preparing students for the National Eligibility Test (NET) in commerce. This five-day intensive coaching session was held from September 23, 2019, to September 27, 2019, at 3.30 to 4.30 pm, and focused on equipping students with the necessary knowledge and strategies to excel in the NET.

The main aim of the program is to offer guidance on exam patterns, time management, and effective study techniques and to enhance problem-solving skills and critical thinking abilities related to commerce subjects.

The coaching commenced with an overview of the NET syllabus, exam pattern, and key focus areas. Experts from the field of commerce provided detailed insights into the subject matter, covering topics such as Business Environment, Financial Management, and Marketing Management.

On the first day overview of research methodology and its importance in commerce and discussed different types of research: qualitative, quantitative, and mixed methods. And also the role of research in academic and professional fields.

The second day discussed the research design and its components, steps involved in planning a research study, formulating research questions and hypotheses and developing a research proposal.

Third day about various data collection methods: surveys, interviews, case studies, and observations, tools for data collection and their application in commerce research, and ensuring reliability and validity in data collection.

On fourth day about data analysis and interpretation and techniques for analyzing quantitative and qualitative data, introduction to statistical tools and software used in data analysis, interpretation of research findings and drawing conclusions.

And last discussed ethical considerations in research, including plagiarism and confidentiality, guidelines for writing a research report or thesis and presentation of research findings and preparation for the UGC NET examination.

The NET coaching on research methodology provided students with a solid foundation in research techniques and their practical application. The sessions were interactive, with students actively participating in discussions and exercises. The program successfully prepared the participants for the research methodology section of the UGC NET exam, enhancing their confidence and competence in the subject.
