Report

From 19th to 21st October 2020, the PG Department of Commerce &Management Studies organized a specialized coaching program aimed at preparing students for the National Eligibility Test (NET). The focus of this three-day intensive coaching was on key areas within the commerce discipline, including Tax, Accounts, and Auditing.

The first day was dedicated to Taxation. The session was taken by Ms.Rathi KN, Assistant Professor, PG Department of Commerce & Management Studies. The session began with an overview of the latest tax laws and amendments. Participants engaged in discussions about direct and indirect taxes, with a particular emphasis on GST. Case studies were used to illustrate real-world applications, enhancing the understanding of complex tax concepts.

The second day focused on Accounts and it's taken by Ms. Bindu T, Head & Assistant Professor, PG Department of Commerce & Management Studies. The session covered both basic and advanced accounting principles, including financial statements, balance sheets, and income statements. Students were guided through the process of analyzing and interpreting financial data, which is crucial for both the NET exam and professional practice.

The final day centered on Auditing. Participants learned about the different types of audits, audit processes, and the role of an auditor. The session also covered auditing standards and practices, along with ethical considerations in auditing. Real-life examples were provided to help students understand the practical aspects of auditing.

The three-day NET coaching was a success, providing commerce students with the necessary tools and knowledge to excel in their upcoming exams. The comprehensive coverage of Tax, Accounts, and Auditing ensured that the participants were well-prepared and confident in tackling these subjects.

Report

The Department of Computer Science organized a focused NET coaching session on Programming Languages from [insert dates]. This specialized coaching aimed to provide comprehensive preparation for students targeting the National Eligibility
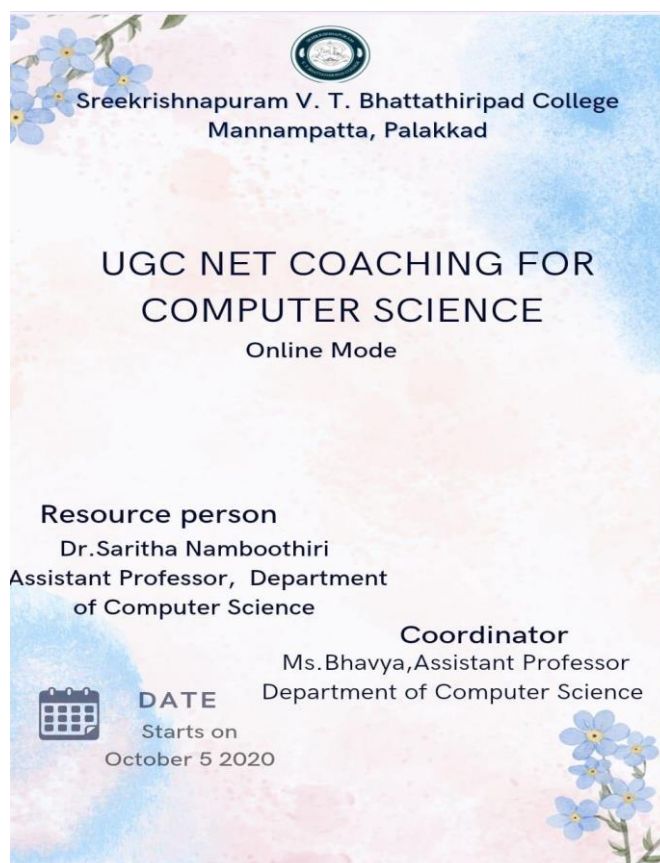

Test (NET) in Computer Science, with a particular emphasis on programming languages, a critical area of the syllabus.

The sessions were meticulously planned and delivered by seasoned faculty members and industry experts with deep knowledge in the subject. The coaching covered a wide range of programming languages, including foundational languages like C and C++, as well as modern languages such as Python, Java, and JavaScript. Each session was designed to help students understand the theoretical concepts and their practical applications, aligning with the NET syllabus requirements.

Key topics included syntax, semantics, language processors, and the differences between procedural, object-oriented, and functional programming paradigms. The coaching also emphasized problem-solving techniques and the application of algorithms, crucial for success in both the theoretical and practical aspects of the NET exam.

Interactive sessions were conducted where students could clarify doubts and engage in discussions, enhancing their understanding of complex concepts. Mock tests and practice questions were also provided, simulating the NET exam environment to help students assess their preparation levels.
